defeated the crack mare Logistilla on Thursday. Bell rode the horse on that occasion in splendid style. Because of this achievement Bobbie Kean was picked to win yesterday's event, but no sooner had he opened an equal gavorite with Aeronaut at 5 to 2 than his price went up, while Aeronaut was backed off the boards. Bell succeeded in jamming Garnish, one of the contenders, to the rail just after leaving the lower turn, so that the latter's sockey had to pull up short. Garnish's flanks feckey had to pull up short. Garnish's flanks were severely cut by the fence and he could mot run a little bit after the accident. Then Bell's mount interfered with another horse on the backstretch, after which the jockey appeared to take Bobble Kean up, for some reason best known to himself. The ride was see bad that the action of the stewards was generally anticipated. Trainer Garth was not at the track and the boy received his instructions from T. F. Coles. Bell is under contract to O. The performance of H. P. Whitney's Vankes fillies, Fads and Fancies and Puritan Girl, in the fifth race, was a shock to the wise men who backed them with unlimited coin. Trainer John W. Rogers told his friends that Fads and Fancies could not lose. John E. Madden, who trained Fantastic, the winner, also be-Microst rained rantagio, the winner, also be-dieved that the Whitney entry was a cinch. Trony Aste, who was represented in the race by Gold Lady, was sure that he did not have a chance because of the boasted provess of the whitney pair. And so it went all the way down the line. Every plunger had the tip and unhooked his bank roll to clean up with the reputed good thing. The moment the prices appeared in the clubhouse William Du Bois got a couple of big wagers on the entry and then refused to take another dollar. "It is in," said he, "and I don't care to be designed."

off all kinds of money in the ring. The public got the tip, too, and from 2 to 1 the price against the pair was beaten down to 6 to 5 at the close. It looked like a slaughter for the books and many of the chalkers declined to accept wagers at the last moment. Then came the race and a fall for the smart people, who looked on in speechless astonishment. Neither Fads and Fancies nor Puritan Girl could get up a gallop. The further they went the more ground they lost, in spite of the fact that both of them were straight when they reached the far turn.
"Where are they?" queried the smart guys.

"They are running the other way," said a 2ew wags. When the finish came Puritan Girl sixth and Fads and Fancies was abso-

Just after Pantoufle reached the paddock she began to cut up and suddenly landed one f her hind feet squarely in a man's bread asket. The object of the mare's attack fell unconscious, but he was soon revived and was placed in a chair.

"What is your name?" asked a reporter,

"None of your business!" was the panting reply, as the injured one jumped to his feet and fied. The defeat of Pantoufe was charged to overconfidence on the part of Miller, but Sir Russell, who beat her, never ran in better form, the colt turning the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5. Sir Russell was recently turned over by T. Hitchcock, Jr., to John E. Madden, who did not believe that the colt would be better than second. Madden, up to yesterday, had not put many winners over the

FOR A QUEER RIDE.

Standing of Bobble Kean Brings Frompt Action—Defeat of the Whitney Filles, Fads and Fanoles and Furitan Girl, a Bad Blow for Their Numerous Backers.

Fockey Charles Bell got himself into trouble yesterday because of a queer looking ride on C. C. Smithson's Bobble Kean, trained by William Garth, in the fourth race at the Beach. The stewards of the meeting, C. J. Fitzgerald, B. K. Knapp and W. S. Vosburgh, notified the boy after the race that his license had been suspended. The case will be investigated and a report will probably be made to the Jockey Club. Bobble Kean, with Bell up, defeated the crack mare Logistilla on Thurs-ning by two lengths in 1:14. C. R. Ellison's Yankee Girl, backed down to 5, closed strong and was second, a length and a half in front of Arimo, who beat Penarris, 7 to 1, by a neck. George S. Davis led to the head of the stretch. In a diagdong finish Keerner got Woodford Clay's Single Shot, 11 to 10 favorite, home a winner of the second race for beaten fillies and mares, one mile and a sixteenth. She won only by a nose, however, as E. R. Thomas's Nemesis, 8 to 1, who led for nearly a mile, hung on gamely to the end. Moonshine, backed down to 7 to 2, was three lengths away. Nemesis stumbled at the start and then was rushed to the front. The time was 1;622-5.

With viotory apparently assured, Pantouse, 7 to 10 isworts, stopped in the middle of the homestretch in the third great for three-year-olds, six furiouse, and T. Hitch-pook, Jr.'s Sir Russell, 10 to 1, overhauled her and won by 8 length in 1:13 4-5. Water Tank, 20 to 1, was a poor third.

H. F. Whitney's pair, Fads and Fancies and You by 8 length in 1:13 4-5. Water Tank, 20 to 1, was a poor third.

H. F. Whitney's pair, Fads and Fancies and wor unplaced. The winner turned up in F. R. Hitchoock's Fantastic, 13 to 5, who finished a length in front of Laura A., 8 to 1, with Gold Lady, 4 to 1, five lengths back. The time was 1:07 8-5.

Angler, 7 to 10 favorite, had the last race at a mile and a quarter at his mercy. When Sewell got ready he went to the front with the Hindoc horse, who romped home three lengths in front of Tyron, 8 to 1, the pacemaker for a mile, with Embarrassment, 9 to 2, three parts of a length behind. The time was 2:05, very fast considering the calibre of the horses. The attendance was 12,000. The surmarsies:

DAY FOR THE QUAKER YACHTS

WIN FOUR DIVISION PRIZES IN COMBINED CRUISE.

Savarona, Vigil, Flying Cloud and Tabasco Successful in Run to Nowport—Effort Scores Third Victory—Floot Disbands After Four Days of First Class Racing.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 20 .- The fleets of the NEWFORT, R. I., July 20.—The fleets of the Atlantic, Seawanhaka Corinthian and Philadelphia Corinthian yacht ciuba arrived here late this afternoen, and as soon as the yachts resched the harbor Commodore D. G. Reid, who was the officer of the day, signalled that the fleet was dishanded. The cruise has been a very successful one, the racing had been good each day and every one is pleased with the undertaking. The yachts men entered into the cruise with the idea of making it a success, the flag officers and their aides have worked hard and the racing has been well managed by the committee, ing has been well managed by the committee,
Theodore D. Wells, A. F. Bancroft, H. H.
Landon and Fred Vilmar. Many of the yachts left the harbor in tow early this evening, to be at Larelimont ready for the races which begin to-morrow.

It was Philadelphia's day, Vice-Commodore which begin to -me rrow.

It was Philadelphia's day, Vice-Commodore C. Howard Clark's schiooner Savarona beat the Lasca in her class and won the prise for the first division. In the second division A. W. Chaudler's Vigil beat the Loyal and Andremeda. In the yawi division the Flying Cloud, owned by J. Loughin, Jr., was the winner from the Circe and Selakda. The Tabasco, owned by W. Barklie Henry, won the fifth division, so that four division prices went to Philadelphia.

The Effort won in her class and division, which makes three victories out of four races for that yacht. The Tabasco, on account of the big allowance she got, won the squadron run. The small yachts under the present rule are very much favored and in average summer weather the big yachts have very slim chances of success. The Effort won one squadron run and the other three went to the 27 footers Bue, Phryne and Tabasco. Greeted by the sirens con Erenton's Reef lightship, another siren sounding on Beaver Tail, the clang of the bell on the committee tug Catherine Moran and the tooting of her whistle, the new sloop Effort, owned by F. M. Smith, led the fiert that raced from Shelter Island to Newport to-day by a good margin. The tooting and whistling was, however, because of thick fog that shut in as the yachts approached Point Judith, and they were not seen until about a quarter of a mile from the finish, when they loomed up like phantoms. The race was a long one. They had got under way in the harbor before 7 o'clock. The first division was sent off at 8,30 o'clock and the Effort was 7 hours 34 minutes and 17. seconds asiling the forty-six miles. She won in her Clark's Irolita by 7 minutes 25 seconds, corrected time.

Of the schooners the Savarona, owned by Vice-Commodore H. C. Clark of the Corinthian Club of Philadelphia, was the first to finish, She crossed the line second to the Effort and was followed? Immutes 15 seconds later by the Lasca. Then came the Irolita and astern of her was the Flying Cloud, the leader of the yawi division.

was followed 2 minutes 15 seconds later by the Lasca. Then came the Irolits and astern of her was the Flying Cloud, the leader of the yawi division.

The Flying Cloud beat the Circe 4 minutes 1 second. In the small schooner class the Andromeda beat the Loyal, and the Peliegrina beat the Gypsey in the small sloop class. The run, considering the weather, was a very good one and yachtsmen generally were well pleased with the results.

There was no wind at all when the flagship Rheclair made the harbor signal sarly in the morning. It was so early that few of the summer colonists at the Manhasset House or the cottages were up to see the yachts start, but Newport was forty-eight miles away and an early start was necessary. Sails were holsted and preparations made to get under way before 7 o'clock, but they could never have got to the line, which was off Long Beach Point, and so each boat secured a tow. As it was, the start had to be post-poned half an hour. By 3:30 o'clock there was a light breeze from the southwest. As usual, the small sloops were sent off on the first signal. The Gladys led across the line, followed by the Tabasco and Pellegrina.

Five minutes later the yawis were started. Major J. Fred Ackerman had the Seinada well in the lead and ashe got over the line almost with the signal. The Flying Cloud was second and the Circe thigh. On the next signal the small division of schooners was sent off and they crossed in this order: Andromeda, Vigil, Loyal.

The big sloops were next. Irolita was close to the line when the signal sounded, Commodore Clark, who had the wheel, having judged his time well. The Effort was some seconds late. Commodore Clark, however, threw away his advantage as soon as the Irolita was across the line by luffling in order to prevent the Effort from passing him to windward. The Effort under do not he tarband tack and carried bal-were on the starband tack and carried bal-about on even terms. In the last division the big schooners started. The Invader and Lasca started at 9:0124, with the Invader to windward, and the Savarona at 9:02:47. All were on the starboard tack and carried balloon jibtopasils. The schooners, in addition, had large maintopmast staysails. The Lasca at once passed the invader and the Savarona closed in on the big yacht. The Invader was luffed to prevent the Savarona passing to windward, but she was too late, and the black Savarona forereached and passed the invader, crossing her bow easily.

The yachts sailed close to the United States cruisers Newark, New Jersey and Virginia and the monitors Florida and Puritan, which were anchored in Gardiner's Bay, and the sailors on the warships had a chance to watch the race. The tide was running east and this favored the yachts very much, and with the fair tide and favoring wind they passed Little Gull Light about 9:30 o'clock, The small sloops were still in the lead. At this point they were eleven miles on their journey.

At 11:30 o'clock the wind backed to the northwest and remained in that quarter until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and then the weather, which had been very hasy, began to clear. The leaders were then three miles west of Watch Hill. The Effort was stering a more southerly course and was able to carry her spinnaker to starboard. Then the wind hardened and good pregrees was made. When off Point Judith the fog shut in, but the wind still blew steadily and they all ran the seven miles from the point to the finishing line with spinnakers set to starboard. The times at the finish were:

Effort, 4:24:17: Savarona, 4:28:10; Lakea, 4:35:25; Iroita, 4:37:55; Flying Cloud, 4:40:20; Circe, 4:44:20;

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 20.—Five hundred enthusiastic spectators left stands and boxes at the Atlantic City horse show this afternoon to congratulate Mrs. John Gerken when her horse Newsboy won back the laurels lost yesterday by defeating Ringing Bells, the victor of the Windsor challenge event and bidder for honors as champion of American harness animals. Gayly dressed women and experts among the men who felt that their admiration for the chestnut had been vindicated crowded around the victorious borse and his plucky driver and fairly showered the woman with congratulations and handshakes.

The judging was extremely close and Ringing Bells lost on form, his failure being ascribed by his owner to a falling off in physical condition. The 'stands took no note of this, however, and when the blue was pinned on Newsboy the gallery broke out in prolonged others. The two horses will meet to-morrow in the championship and partisans are already laying wagers on the result.

Richard G. Park, Jr., a Philadelphia rider, was thrown from his mount, Golden Rod, in the handicap contest for jumpers while taking a four foot fence, the incident creating considerable excitement until the unfortunate rider ploked himself up and waved his hand in token of his asfety. By beating the Clevelands yesterday the New York Americans took second place away from them. The series was an even break, just as the series with St. Louis and Chloago were. For home games that is hardly a fast enough clip to win a pennant, but the rival teams are not going any faster. Griffith's pitching staff was further weakened yesterday by the enforced absence of Orth, whose wife is ill and who has gone home. A new pitcher named Gerrity from the Hudson River League will report to-day. The Philadelphias made it three out of four from St. Louis, the Washingtons shut out Chicago, and Detroit thrived in Boston. The results: and Detroit thrived in Boston. Simoothness was missing from yesterday's game between the New Yorks and Clevelands, but it was another close, variegated contest, and the New Yorks won. There was ragged fielding, but nearly every inning was spirited. The orippied Clevelands booted and hurled the ball around wildly more or less, which with needful hits and a sessoning of bases on balls supplied the New Yorks with runs in compact chunks and of sufficient number to pull out one in the lead.

Griffith saved the day for the hillmen. He went to the mound in the sixth inning when Doc Newton's cross fire was being analyzed with disastrous results. The change from Newton to Griffith was in the nick of time and stopped further bunching of hits. The manager fed change of pace to the Clevelands and mixed up his teasers, puzzling the larrupers and worrying them into hitting when they were not prepared and into not hitting when nice ones salled over. The Clevelands had to borrow a catcher. Malachi Kittredge came on from Washington to work until the regular corps of backstops is in shape to do duty once more.

The first four innings were receled off quickly, with steady fielding and light hitting. Newton struck out four men in succession, the least three in the third inning. Flick made a safe bunt in the fourth, then came two outs, and then Lajole toed the scratch. Newton passed Lajole, it was a most heartiess thing for him to do. He really ought to have allowed Larry to make a home run just to please those whose baseball notions are only surface deep. It was good baseball, however, to pass Lajole, and strange to say, that is what Newton did. The next batter grounded out, further proof of the fallacy of the national gamesers a single by Congain on the Barbeau general could not steady himself for a good throw after smallenge

Stovall hit to the left first lefter. Acceptance soored, but Stovall was so lame that he just managed to limp to first. Had he been sound he would have been on third base, but it wouldn't have altered the result, as Turner furnished a long fly to Moriarity.
